Netiquette

OBJECTIVE

To learn how to show kindness to others on the internet.

OUTCOME

To be aware that there are different ways you can write the same comment, but to choose the way which is most nice and kind.

MATERIALS

A copy of the comments and definition below (you can use the accompanying slides), and access to YouTube to show the video below.

INSTRUCTIONS

1. Introduce the exercise to everyone, and present the objectives and outcomes.
2. Present the following comments to the children one-by-one and ask them to say how they would feel if they received these comments and why. You can use the information below to prompt the children -
“You are such a baby.”
(The writer is making fun of someone by telling them they are behaving like a little child.)
“I SAID NO!!!”
(The writer seems like they are shouting when they may not have meant for it to come across like this. Talk to the children about what capital letters and exclamation marks add to the comment, and that a person should be careful about over-using exclamation marks.)
3. Present and explain the following definition of “netiquette” - “Being nice and kind to others on the internet like how you would be in real-life.”
4. Show the following video about rules of netiquette - <https://youtu.be/6dRoqlqDJh0> (2.38 minutes)
5. Ask the children what they learned from the video.
6. End the exercise by explaining to the children that it is important to be nice to others online, and to be careful and clear.

EVALUATION

- Ask the children to say aloud as many of the rules as they can remember from the video.

NOTES

- When showing the comments to the children, only read them out if the children struggle to read.

(Allowing the children to read themselves mirrors cyberbullying more closely.)
